Reader Reviews

“The Zetacean Guide spans parapsychology, cosmology, religion and spirituality to cast a description of how beings from another region of our galaxy have come among us and benevolently infiltrated humanity since the beginnings of known history. While it won't fail to raise certain eyebrows, this tale makes for a gripping read. It radically departs from traditionally accepted ideas, yet is anchored in similar roots to our widely embraced Judeo-Christian religions. Fusing creationist theory with intergalactic astrophysics, the Zetacean Guide brings unusual insight into what our universe might actually be. This is perhaps also a preferred guide for those of us who don't like soup, perhaps reminded of our lowly beginnings in a chaotic magma? This book addresses cognition through a fragmented spatial localization of conscience. The motive for separation into individual consciousness is said to grant a view of creation from multiple vantage points, using motion and experience to generate a kaleidoscope of perspectives, the sum of which leads to universal awareness. Unaligned with conventional thinking, adepts of an Inner Earth theory may find intriguing how the Zetacean Guide refers to an inner sun, each planet integrating at its core a natural reactor propelling its trajectory. And those fascinated by Stargates may also be amazed at the postulate that they indeed exist, but within each atom of matter, and hence are not to be found at any singular location in space. Said to be from the higher reaches of a stacked multidimensional universe, Zetacean souls have an ability to project into assorted bodies anywhere in the cosmos, preferring incarnation by natural birth to better adapt to the environment and often selecting planet Earth for the contrasting experiences it can provide. Originating in a higher dimension, Zetaceans also bring humans new insight into unexplained phenomena. Capable of inter-dimensional jumps, we learn that Zetaceans are here today on a mission as a rescue team dispatched by the Creator against dark entities who have gained influence over Earth. For demonic reptilians, whose intelligence is dissociated from love, oppress humanity from the depths of a hellish netherworld with a plague of suffering, sorrow and death. Similarly to biblical accounts widely accepted by billions of believers, humanity is described as enslaved by demonic creatures who design the materialistic shackles of economic bondage and possess a ruling elite of traitors who in exchange for wealth and power deliver us to their masters. Yet free will and self-determination of all living creatures are part of the divine manifest described. While cruelty is a vocation for demons who relish the horrors of the abyss of darkness, all creatures have a conscience connected to the Creator and can heed its calling to ascend through redemption or descend further into the depths of hell. This book also outlines stratagems in the ongoing battle between Zetaceans and Reptilian entities, along with explanations of the fatality of life paths, angelic protection and divine intervention and presents a concrete example of the epic struggle between these forces. The Zetacean Guide, beyond its calling as a reference work for stranded Zetaceans stuck on this planet, serves to update in contemporary terms much of the lore divulged in ancient times through messianic revelations and religious scripture. From the Zoroastrians to more recent declinations of faith, many are the parallels which can be made. If for nothing else this book makes for an entertaining read, while at the same time popping the lid on many deep rabbit holes which some may wish to further explore. A highly recommended work for those with an open mind and the ability to reposition ideas between multiple contexts.”

“Thank you for the first edition of your new book. I read it twice to make sure that it all sank in. It is a very good read, and I'll be buying a copy when you publish it. I bet you could have written three times or more on this subject! I was relieved that the Akashic Record stated that we have succeeded at this time...I didn't like to read that it could be changed subject to a timeline manipulation! It was interesting to read about the use of deprivation tanks. I read a lot of this years ago when I studied Dr. John Lilly's books. So...I'm in...I really liked it just the way it is. Good stuff; well worth reading.”

“This book describes an alternative view on the creation of the universe. It also describes how a being from another star system can merge with a body on earth in order to help fight the demonic forces on earth. And it describes the actions undertaken to defeat the demonic forces. The book is interesting, informative and well written. In the beginning, before the creation of the universe, a dense chemical, electromagnetic soup existed at that initial stage. The Creator formed denser forms out of the original soupy universal material. Once forms of denser matter had been separated out, the Creator infused each form with consciousness. Having consciousness allowed each form to peer out onto its surroundings from its location in space. The forms thought that they would like to travel to different locations. Planets coalesced out of the soupy mixture using a centrifugal force field to push away and against other forms. Each one used the other to put itself in motion. The Creator fashioned tracks in space for the celestial bodies to follow. As the matter moved along its circular track, it began to take a round shape. Bodies in space jet along by their own nuclear reaction. At the core of each celestial body is located a nuclear ‘plant’.

“Zetaceans are souls that originate in the Zeta Reticuli star systems. Zetaceans can remote view onto any planet they like. At the time that a foetus in the womb of an earth mother is developing, Zetaceans ask the body if they could share the body and incarnate in the body. Bodies usually allow it. Zetaceans have the ability to jump across space and time. Zetaceans are now on planet earth in a physical mode that allows for interaction.

“Since the start of the creation of the universe, demonic beings have been in control of this part of the universe.

“While on earth, Zetaceans try to bring information to the population about the demonic-reptilian treat for takeover of our planet. But humans seem to prefer living in a fantasy to living in reality. The most difficult thing has proven to be getting people to take their blinders off. But as more people come into contact with the truth, the energy shifts to a higher frequency. At a higher frequency, it is harder to conceal the truth. As more light is shone on the information, the harder it is to conceal dark secrets.

“In a future timeframe, the forces of light (the Cetaceans and other alien beings that are here to help) will overwhelm the forces of the dark side.

But it will still be a while before the changes manifest.

“The Beatles were agents of Creator. Together they formed a formidable opposition to demonic hegemony on this planet. The Beatles manifested high frequency energy in their music that created a polar opposite on human consciousness. As the good vibrations of the Beatles’ songs began to take over the radio waves, a transformation in humanity began to take shape. But the demonic element was not pleased. Acting through their agents on earth – the illuminati – the demons assassinated Paul McCartney in 1966. The demon-possessed illuminati replaced him with a double.

“Also of interest are the two following books if you're interested in learning more about what is behind the current situation in the world:

Alien Invasion, Reptilians, Cetaceans and Frequency Wars on Planet Earth.

Forbidden Secrets of the Illuminati: the Luciferian Deception.”

“This book is very well written and it contains very interesting information.

“Wuono describes how life at her home planet of Lukr is, how and why Zetaceans came to Earth, and what insights they have gained from many experiences. “Zetaceans” are how they like to call themselves because Lukr is in the Zeta Reticuli star system. After many cycles of birth, death, and rebirth Zetaceans have discovered some important truths they would like to share. Wuono shares this information with us in her book.

“Good stuff; well worth reading.”

Introduction

Zetaceans are visiting Earth in an attempt to ward off the onslaught of demon-possessed Reptilians. After many cycles of birth, death, and rebirth, we have discovered some important truths we would like to share. How the universe works is something akin to a giant hologram. Each aspect of the hologram is contained in every other aspect of the universe. As a result, everybody is affected by every thought, deed, and action.

This book discloses knowledge that has been gained by Zetaceans who have been on planet for thousands of Earth-years. Zetacean Wuono discusses her theories garnered from many lifetimes spent in human and other Earth-bodies. A caution must be delivered prior to reading this book: After comprehending the information contained in this book, you, dear Reader, will probably experience an awakening, which may make it difficult to settle back into “normal” daily life. If the caution does not alarm you, then you may be one who can integrate this knowledge into your consciousness for a better understanding of how this universe operates.

The Universe in a Nutshell

The universe in this dimension is a hologram. In the beginning, Creator took a piece of matter, which He used to manifest this material density. Pieces of matter could be used to open up a hole in the dense chemical, electromagnetic soup that existed at that initial stage. Creator carved out a hollow area by coalescing matter into denser forms. In this way, Creator developed a separation between the dense and the not-dense. By creating division, He wrought denser forms out of the original soupy universal material.

Once forms of denser matter had been separated out, Creator infused each form with consciousness. This has been referred to as the “breath of life.” Now each form could appreciate its own place in the universe. Having consciousness allowed each form to peer out onto its surroundings from its location in space. The forms thought that they would like to travel to different locations. To accomplish that goal, the forms considered how they could act on the surrounding matter to put themselves in motion. Planets coalesced out of the soupy mixture using a centrifugal forcefield to push away and against other forms. Each one used the others to put itself in motion. Once the bodies set themselves in motion, Creator noticed that something had to be done to create order. Creator fashioned tracks in space for the celestial bodies to follow. After Creator made the tracks, the planets began to take shape, as matter was now set on paths.

As matter coalesced on centrifugal pathways, the denser material settled out into globs of matter. As the matter moved along its circular track, it began to take on a round shape. This was due to the forces exerted on the matter. If a glob of matter is going around and around at a fairly quick pace, then it will act on the molecules to bring them into a circular formation. After many eons of going around and around, the planets have achieved a smooth, rounded shape. The matter picks up debris along the way that eventually becomes part of the planet. Comets are dragging a lot of debris behind them, but eventually, that debris will be integrated into the celestial body. That means that comets are planets in the making.

Matter and energy are correlated. Just as the power from a nuclear reaction is achieved from splitting the tiny atom, bodies in space jet along by their own nuclear reaction. At the core of each celestial body is located a nuclear "plant." During the fusion reaction, energy is pulled from the epicenter of the atoms comprising the celestial body's core. The center of an atom is a star gate. Each star gate is connected to an energy source density or dimension. This dimension contains limitless energy potential that can be accessed through atomic wormholes. In between energy and matter are these wormholes keeping them separated, yet allowing interaction.

The catalyst for changing the design of the galaxy was concern about certain types of elements. What that means is that elements of a volatile nature had to be organized into groups that were less combustible. An intricate dance of celestial bodies was choreographed by Creator. Now the celestial bodies spin around each other in perfect unison. However, as with any complex design, there are occasional collisions.

Creator does enjoy watching how the forces He set in motion play out. It does not phase Creator that the universe is pulling apart at the seams. Creator admires His creation and all the beings within it. Creator enjoys watching how they interact with each other, as they are individuals, yet connected to Him at the same time. Knowing that each is an integral part of the Grand Design certainly helps one develop tolerance and perspective. Creator loves all of His creation — even those parts that have rebelled against Him. He revels in the fact that something He created could turn against Him. It shows that the creation is greater than the sum of its parts. He is the Creator, but not the only determiner of events. The individuals in the creation have minds of their own. Creator brought entities into being that have the capacity for free will and self determination. To achieve such an accomplishment is quite a feat — even for Creator.

As it now stands, the universe is comprised of countless numbers of individuals with their own thoughts and minds independent of Creator. Despite being of the Creator, the universe is not the same thing as the Creator. In reality, Creator fashioned out of His own thought-energy a universe of matter and a universe of energy. Each universe has many “layers” that could be called dimensions or densities. Dimensions are discrete energetic vibratory “channels” to which a multitude of different realities correspond. In this way, Creator stacked many different universes into one universe, similar to how Russian matryoshka dolls are stacked, one inside the other.

Creator arranged dimensions according to the frequency of light energy. Just imagine an array of lights in which different rows of lights have different frequencies. In one frequency bandwidth, one row of lights is on. Densities work in approximately the same way. In one dimension, one row of lights is on while the others are off. At the extreme ends of the bandwidth, some bleed-over or interference can occur. This causes people who resonate at such frequencies to experience “paranormal” activity. This is just normal for those who “straddle” dimensions.

In the next chapter, a more detailed discussion of spirituality will be provided.
